City of Access

This location is designated as a City of Access site

☐   DC Residents can find free Internet access here.

☐   DC Residents can find free or low-cost computer training here.

coa.octo.dc.gov

The new City of Access website provides a list of more than 150 free Internet locations and free or low-cost computer training in neighborhoods for DC residents. This valuable tool helps residents find locations convenient to home, day care, and other frequented spots.

Help make Washington, DC the City of Access! Spread the word about the city's free Internet access and free or low-cost computer training. Do your part to inform residents about City of Access. Post this flyer at public computer labs or distribute it at community events. Know of another free computer site not listed? Enter it at the website.

To help with other outreach services or for more information, contact City of Access at (202) 727-8761 or visit coa.octo.dc.gov.